

Ideas for Reviewing Religious School Holiday Concepts

The following is a list of creative ways you can review the holiday concepts. Students can participate in the activities alone or in pairs first, and then present them to the class!

Students act out concepts.

Students illustrate concepts

Students write a song or poem about the concepts.

Students write a newspaper article or diary entry about the concepts.

Students write a letter to a person in the holiday story (Passover-Moses, Chanukah-Judah Maccabee) teaching that person about the concepts.

Students read concepts. Teacher interviews students about concepts that were read.

Students write a slogan about the concepts.

Students write a short story about the concepts.

Students create a puzzle, word game or maze based on the concepts.

Students draw a comic strip about the concepts.